Build a customer management system with Python/Django where a customer is associated with a user . A user has a profile and has the ability to edit his/her information . In this project the basic crud functionality was implemented using Django as well as user registration and login functionality . Also I set user restriction whereby a user is not able to see another customer , I did that using Python decorators . And another nice functionality I used was Django signals which immediately associate a user to a group after signing up . I would talk more when we get in touch
